Registration Guide for Spring 2014 Courses

Registration for Spring courses starts this year on Tuesday, November 5 and runs through Friday, November 15. The Department of Sociology and Anthropology looks forward to working with you as you plan your schedule. This document should help you to do so, but it is not a substitute for an advising appointment, so please arrange to meet with your major advisor before registration.

Next semester, we have an array of electives to choose from including two different Special Topics courses detailed on page 4. Dr. Brown-Glaude will be teaching SOC 205 Social Deviance, a course that hasn't been taught at TCNJ since Fall 2010. Also offered this spring is Dr. Clydesdale's SOC 380 Education and American Culture. This perennial favorite provides students with diverse opportunities to observe and consider education and American culture including field trips to area schools.

Other exciting offerings include the popular SOC 333 Body Image, Culture and Society taught by Dr. Jodi Brodsky; SOC 205, Introduction to Social Work, taught by Antonino Scarpati, Assistant Dean of Nursing; SOC 320 Community, City, and Suburb with Dr. Diane Bates, and SOC 356 Self and Society with Dr. Mohamoud Ismail. On the Anthropology front, course offerings include two sections of ANT 240 Epidemiology with Dr. Lynn Gazley, and ANT 205 Human Evolution with (soon-to-be) Dr. George Leader.

Please remember that SOC majors can count ANT courses towards the major, so be sure to check for both prefixes on PAWS when you register. Cross-listed between both Sociology and Anthropology for Spring will be two sections of SOC 371/ ANT 371 Culture, Health, and Illness. To insure that Sociology majors have a chance to enroll in this very popular course, section 371-02 with Dr. Rachel Adler will be reserved for Sociology majors (though you can enroll in either section).

Advising

Individual Advising

Students are strongly encouraged to meet with their faculty advisor before registering for classes. Drop by your advisor's office to sign up for an advising appointment time. Sign-up sheets will be posted starting the week of October 14 outside your advisor's office. Please be on time for your appointment and review the HSS "Advising Syllabus" you received over email. If you are unsure who your advisor is, open your student account in PAWS and check the right-hand column under ADVISOR.

Group Advising

A group advising session with Department Chair Dr. Borland and Program Assistant Karen Dubrulle will be held on Tuesday, October 22 in Social Sciences 340 from 12:00-1:00. We will review general information to help you plan your courses wisely; this meeting complements your individual advising appointment with your faculty advisor, and is especially recommended for students newer to TCNJ.

Peer Mentor Laura Magaw is the Peer Mentor for Sociology and Anthropology. She has office hours every Monday from 6:30pm-8:30pm in the Social Science Building Atrium. Laura is a great resource for peer advising and can offer tips on course selection, study strategies, and studying abroad. You may also contact Laura by email at magaw1@tcnj.edu.

Preparing for Your Advising Appointment

Before meeting with your advisor, review the HSS Advising Policy and your advising syllabus to know what is expected of you. For the meeting, print and bring with you the following items:

Two Special Topics Courses!

Along with the many electives being offered this semester, please consider our "special topics" courses (SOC370) which give students and faculty the chance to focus on a topic that is not currently on the regular curriculum. Please note that you may register for more than one topics class and if you have already taken SOC370 with a different topic, you may again register for SOC370. For Spring 2013, there will be two topics offered.

The first is "Food, Culture and Society" taught by Dr. Jodi Brodsky (SOC370-01). Food is among the most essential elements of our daily life yet can also be one of the most revealing constituents of social processes and social structure. In this course, students will examine the multi-faceted role of food through readings, films, discussions, and shared experiences. This course will scrutinize the many dimensions and contexts of the production, distribution, and consumption of food. Topics will include food's role in personal, cultural and social identity; the political economy and ecology of the production and distribution of food; the relationship of the consumption of food to geography, culture, history, and stratification; the role of food-related mass media and consumerism in body image, health and wellness; and the ethics of eating.

The second special topics course "Development and Social Change in China" is taught by Dr. Rebecca Li (SOC370-02). Dr. Li describes the course, "The economic reform that began in 1978 in China lifted hundreds of millions out of poverty and is the most important development story of our time. This course examines the historical background and process of China's economic reform from the sociological perspective of economic development. Various development theories will be discussed and applied to the Chinese case to assess their relevance. The consequences of economic development on the Chinese society, including inequality and mobility, gender relations and family, as well as cultural change, will be examined".

Winter Term in Trinidad and Tobago!

From January 2-17, Dr. Winnifred Brown-Glaude along with Dr. Ruth Palmer (EASE) will be leading a student group to Trinidad and Tobago. Listed as AAS 392/SED 392/ SOC 392, the course will introduce students to the richness and diversity of the culture of Trinidad as it prepares for Carnival.

A main objective of the course is to foster a greater understanding of the region's complex realities by exposing students to the rich and diverse culture of Trinidad and Tobago.

For more information and to apply, please see the listing under 2014 faculty-led programs on the TCNJ Center for Global Engagement website or email Dr. Brown-Glaude at wbrown@tcnj.edu.
